FAQs

I know you may have a lot of questions about the web design process. I have answered a few of the top questions I receive!

How does the process start?

Mitchell Productions, LLC will supply a few web design samples based on your colors or logo and provide them to you by email for review. We will work together to get to a final design. In the meantime, you can collect and gather your content such as BIO, list of services, contact information and etc!

When do I pay for the web design fee?

The web design fee is due in full once the client has selected a web design sample that meets their need.

How long does it take to create the new web site?

Your new website will be up and running within 15 - 20 business days of Mitchell Productions, LLC receiving all of your final website content (ex. Price list, list of services, BIO, contact information etc). If you need your website completed sooner, we have a fast track option for an additional fee!

How do we keep the site updated?

Mitchell Productions, LLC provides ad hoc, monthly or quarterly updates for an additional fee. The update fee is based on the amount of updates requested

SOCIAL MEDIA COACHING

"So how did you get into social media coaching?" Glad you asked! As I have worked with web design clients over the years, the first question I received once completing their website project was..."How do I get people to visit my website?" Of course we want people to find us by Google or Bing search engines but the power of social media tools like Facebook and Twitter can not be denied as a website traffic generator. My response to their question was ALWAYS about their visibility and use of social media. I found that many clients recognize the power of social media but just felt un-equipped, un-clear or overwhelmed by trying to use it to promote their product, business or service. Thus the creation of my Social Media coaching programs!
